Introduction

We make future more productive, more secure and more sustainable. We integrate intelligent buildings, efficient energy solutions, integrated infrastructure and next generation Integrated Tech Facility Management Service that work seamlessly together to deliver on the promise of smart cities and communities. infrastructure and next generation Integrated Tech Facility Management Service that work seamlessly together to deliver on the promise of smart cities and communities.

PC–based control technology, which has already been used successfully for almost three decades in all areas of industrial automation, has become an integral component of intelligent building automation. The demands on the intelligence of buildings have increased constantly in recent years, such that the energy efficiency as well as a good "return on investment" is the priority.
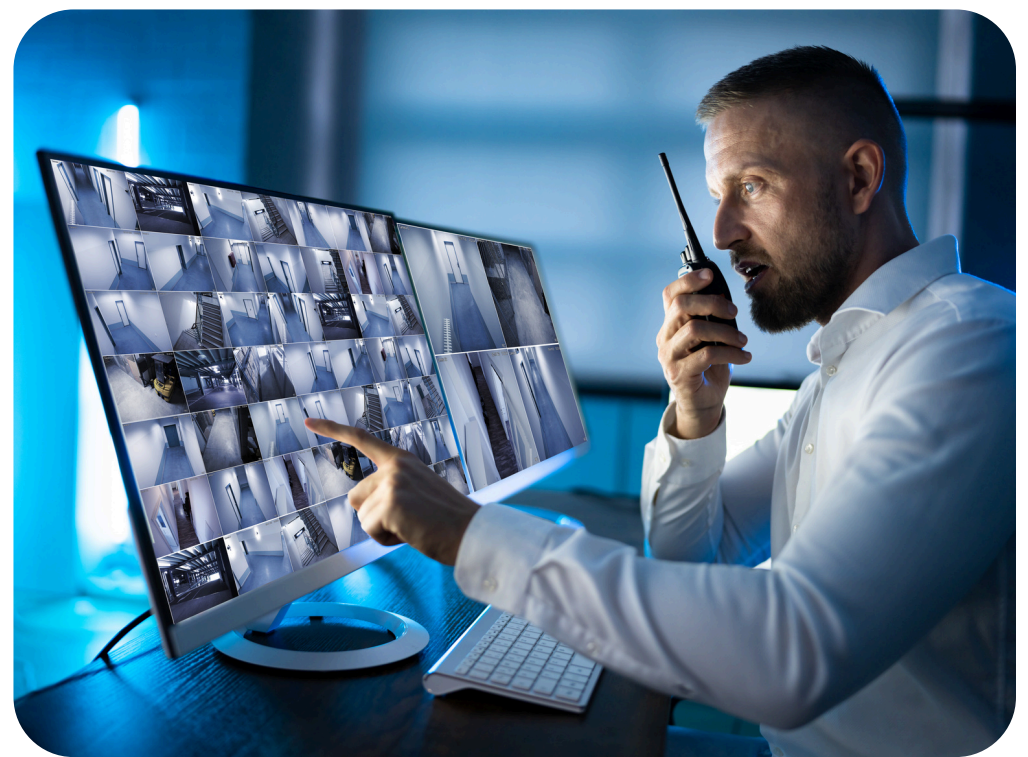

The idea of a "green building" based on sustainable, energy efficient construction and building use can be realised with intelligent, integral building automation. Sheildnest Automation offers a universal, scalable building automation control system covering PC– and Ethernet/web based controllers and a modular I/O system for logging all data points.
